Well injection price doubled

BELLE GLADE—To inject or not to inject waste water in a deep well, and how many wells should be involved, were the questions facing community leaders last Thursday but an engineer said that he has had to almost double the anticipated cost of getting rid of treated sewage at any rate.

Russell and Axon engineer Kenneth Schenck told representatives of Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee that in light of a test deep well proposed in Collier County he has had to almost double the anticipated cost of a deep well here.

Schenck handed out a sheet bearing anticipated annual costs to the representatives but at the request of Dr. Richard Ormon, an engineer with Barker, Osha and Anderson, the other engineering firm working on the Glades 201 Plan, said he would compile a more complete cost breakdown to the city commissions so they can be in a better position to make a decision.

The 201 plan is a plan being put together by the two engineering firms for getting rid of point pollution waste water in the Glades, primarily the effluent from city sewage treatment plants.

A number of alternative solutions to handling the point pollution has been offered the cities during a series of meetings over the past several months but Schenck boiled down the more practical methods to 13 proposals last December.

All 13 of the proposals were variations on either deep well injection or land spreading, which would consist of either forcing treated effluent down a well somewhere between 2,500 and 3,500 feet or spraying the effluent over some 600 acres of land.

Schenck has been saying all along the more practical of the two basic methods would probably be the deep well concept but since the federal Environmental Protection Agency favors land spreading where possible, he has had to consider that method also.

He said Thursday that if any land spreading alternative is available which would cost within 15 percent of the other proposed methods, it would have to be considered cost effective.

Under that rule, the cities would have to consider the least expensive land spreading alternative, even though it would cost $2.7 million more over a 20 year period. The least expensive deep well injections would cost an estimated $32.2 million over 20 years.

"What I need from you now," Schenck told the commissioners and officials present for the meeting, "is an indication whether you want to go with a well in each of the three cities, two wells with one in Belle Glade and the other in Pahokee or one well in Belle Glade."

If the three cities choose to go with one well in Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee would have to pipe their sewage to Belle Glade. If two wells are used, which was the cheapest method listed by Schenck, South Bay would still have to pipe its effluent to Belle Glade.

"But you're not going to make a decision between the three alternatives based on cost," Schenck said. "There isn't that much difference. You'll be making your decision based on politics."

Schenck said the reason he had had to double his estimates on the cost of a deep well is that the EPA has come up with new requirements, including a requirement for a casing which would have to be special made for the project and the fact the EPA no longer allows the test well to be used later as the production well.

The total capital outlay for the well, assuming the test well indicates this is an effective method of disposal, and needed improvements to the treatment plants and systems of the three towns, would be $9.5 million. The test well would cost an estimated $2.5 million.

With an expected 75 percent funding from federal sources, the total cost for the three cities would still be $23.7 million in capital

RIBBON CUTTING TIME in South Bay came early Friday when Mayor Billy Wells snipped the ribbon held by Bank of Belle Glade President Wayne Mikell when the bank's first branch became South Bay's first bank.

South Bay comes of age

Bank branch opens

SOUTH BAY—Mrs. Katie Evans of 1190 N.W. First St. opened the first account Friday in South Bay's first bank office of the Bank of Belle Glade, following ribbon cutting ceremonies at the Minnimal and while guests were still sipping coffee or punch and eating donuts.

The open house and grand opening began at 9:15 a.m. and went through the rest of the day with an estimated 100 guests showing up for the ceremonies and another 50 through the day.

Mrs. Evans was the first of 29 accounts opened during the working day, "but that's no indication of the amount of business we'll be doing there," said Bank of Belle Glade First Vice President Harold Roland, because we've been opening accounts here at the main bank ever since the word got out we were going to open the branch." Roland said transactions could be made by bank customers at either the main bank or the branch, "so far as the customers are concerned there would be no difference."

The three personnel manning the new branch are branch manager Dennis Milliron, teller Levada Huff and Virginia Lamb, a utility employee, "who does a little of everything."

A brief ceremony began the day for the bank with the Rev. Bill Anderson of the First Baptist Church in South Bay providing an invocation, a brief statement by Bank of Belle Glade President Wayne Mikell and another statement by South Bay Mayor Billy Wells.

Mikell held a ceremonial ribbon while Wells cut it.

Bank directors present for the ceremony included George Wedgworth and James A. Ball.

Few surprises in new studies

Few surprises are expected July 13 when a South Florida Water Management District study of nutrient loading in Lake Okeechobee is presented to the District's board of directors but knowledge gleaned from 18 months of sampling may paint a clearer picture of the state of the big lake's eutrophication.

The study was performed by staff members under District chemist Fred Davis in concert with a similar study being performed for the Florida Sugar Cane League by Black, Crow and Eidness, a Gainesville engineering firm.

Davis said the study, which hasn't been released yet, indicates 596 tons of phosphorus a year is being loaded into the lake from the Everglades Agricultural Area (EAA) along with 7,787 tons of nitrogen.

What, if anything, should be done to decrease the nutrient loading hasn't been decided, Davis said.

"I'm not at all sure," Davis said, "we should try to manage the loading of both phosphorus and nitrogen and if we try to control one of them, I'd lean toward the phosphorus for a number of reasons. For one thing, it would be easier to control than the input of nitrogen."

Davis said the control of phosphorus is being studied now in the Kissimmee River valley. The Taylor Creek-Nubbin Slough area is the number one source of phosphorus in the lake and Davis said he believes phosphorus, rather than nitrogen, is the key to controlling eutrophication.

While discussing controls, Davis said there are any number of solutions, some of which would be very expensive and some which would actually save money. He said they ranged from a selective slowdown in backpacking to stopping it altogether in favor of water retention areas, which would create a closed system.

George Wedgworth, president of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida and chairman of the Florida Sugar Cane League's committee on environmental problems, said he had met most of the day Monday with Davis, some of Davis' staff and experts from the League and Black, Crow and Eidness.

Wedgworth said the meeting was set up to allow the technical experts who performed the League study and the District study compare data revealed by the two studies.

"The report is not going to be any surprise to anybody," he said. "We did find a lot of excellent things we weren't aware of before. We did find the EAA does provide some nutrients to Lake Okeechobee. The question is, how much nutrient can the lake take before it's too much."

Wedgworth said he would also have to modify a statement he made six months ago to the effect rainwater loads more nitrogen into Lake Okeechobee than runoff from agricultural land, although he said it is approximately the same.

He said both the District and the League studies will be made public in the near future and an overview document will then be compiled on the findings of both studies which will also incorporate findings from previous studies.

He said the studies should increase the overall knowledge about both the quality and quantity of water in the Lake Okeechobee system.

"A lot of people don't believe farmers give a damn about the quality and quantity of water in Lake Okeechobee," he said. "We're interested in the quality but we're also interested in the quantity of water available."

"Unfortunately," Wedgworth concluded, "some of our adversaries are only interested in water quality."

Water is everyone's concern

BELLE GLADE—The coordinator of water programs in research and extension of the Institute of Food and Agricultural Science of the University of Florida told the Belle Glade Rotarians Tuesday that water is a vital topic of great concern to all of Florida.

Dr. Shirley West was introduced by Dr. Don Myhre and presented to the club a short slide show highlighting his discussion.

He said that because of Florida's rapid growth, a tremendous strain had been put upon the available water supply. In some areas of the state, he pointed out, the water table has dropped 70 feet.

Silver Haired Legislators set public hearing here for July 5

BELLE GLADE—Members of the District 9 Silver Haired Legislative Delegation will hold a public hearing here Wednesday, July 5, to hear the views of local senior citizens on what they think their problems are and possible ways they could be solved.

The hearing will take place at 2:30 p.m. in the Belle Glade City Hall, is aimed at senior citizens throughout western Palm Beach County and, according to one of the legislators, could be a pioneering move to meet the needs of senior citizens throughout the country.

Delegation chairman Joe Martin said the legislature is only the second in the nation. It is patterned on a similar senior citizens' legislature in Missouri and Representative Samuel Bottosso said Florida's version could be pioneering in cultural innovations.

The two representatives, along with Representative Rudy Brey, were in Belle Glade Tuesday to lay the groundwork for next week's hearing. They said they want to get as many senior citizens, and young people too, to attend the hearing to provide as broad base of input as possible.

They said the hearing was the seventh they've held, beginning with meetings in Riviera Beach, Stuart, Lake Worth, Delray Beach, Boca Raton and Okeechobee. They represent Palm Beach, Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee Counties.

Martin said the delegation would probably use the Belle Glade meeting to summarize the input which has been provided in the other six meetings, along with the one here, in a questionnaire distributed during the hearing.

"I feel we've had good representation at the meetings," Martin said. "We've learned a lot and we're really interested in hearing from the public."

Martin was quick to point out that when the legislature convenes in Tallahassee July 10-14, the delegates will be holding down costs by staying and eating at a dormitory at Florida State University.

The delegates have already compiled ten proposed acts, the maximum allowed, to be acted on first by the entire Senior Haired Legislature and then, if the acts are successful there, to the state legislature next year.

The proposed bills would:

- Regulate home health care agencies.
- Set up a mandatory three year prison sentence for any person robbing or harassing elderly persons; reduce the age from 18 to 16 years for youthful offenders for serious crimes against senior citizens, treating them as adults and require a mandatory death penalty for persons convicted of crimes resulting in the death of senior citizens.

• Expand multiple health care centers.

• Make available at a nominal cost college courses for senior citizen projects.

• Set up a permanent Silver Haired Legislature and put more senior citizens on decision making boards.

• Control the costs of medical and health care for senior citizens.

• Expand meals on wheels, chore services and home health aides programs.

• Provide ombudsmen for each of the 11 districts of the Silver Haired Legislature.

Martin also outlined a "reserve mortgage" plan which would allow senior citizens to receive monthly payments for their house, if they own it outright, from banks and savings and loan institutions, with the bank receiving its equity on the death of the individual.

He said this plan would ensure a person has a home and provide income at the same time.

"We're well aware of Proposition 13," Martin said, "and that we must be responsible people."

THE FIRST ACCOUNT to be opened at the Bank of Belle Glade's South Bay branch Friday was in the name of Mrs. Katie Evans (far side in front of desk). Doing the paperwork is Mikell's secretary, Janice Alava, with a helping hand from check supplier Barry Wilson, while Mrs. Evans' children, Sheila Jefferson, Tina Evans (in Sheila's lap) and Leroy Bunns look on.

In case you haven't noticed lately, it's been raining. And in case you didn't catch the story in last week's paper it's likely to rain even more.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration is presently engaged in a cloud seeding project over Lake Okechobee to see if rain can be made to fall by lacing the clouds with silver iodide.

The program began June 15 and will continue through September, the traditional dry season in these parts. However, as anyone familiar with South Florida knows, we haven't had much traditional weather in the past two years. When it snows in Pahokee and Belle Glade, something's fouled up.

Likewise, our dry season has been a mite damp. And if the experiment works, it'll be even damper. Matter of fact, it's a 50-50 bet it'll be downright wet.

Ray Burgess, Hendry County's agricultural agent, noted that when rain-making experiments were carried out in the early 1970's they were successful.

So successful, in fact, that he attributed them to one eight-inch frog croaker that near flooded the area.

I called the National Weather Service in Miami and they sent a packet of information on the cloud seeding experiments. One requirement stands out above all. Before seeding can take place, conditions have to be just right.

By being just right, the clouds have to be just right. You apparently can't spray silver iodide into the cloudless sky and expect rain.

But when we have clouds over Lake Okechobee, we often have rain to accompany them. Ask any fisherman about that. Just when he's ready to go, it clouds up and rain falls.

It'll be interesting to see if this rain experiment will produce more rain for us in the coming months. Maybe all of us can produce a healthy stand of sawgrass in the front yard.

A couple of weeks ago, a copy of "Driftings" was passed along to me from Pahokee High School.

"Driftings" is a student literary magazine published by and for the students of the home of Blue Devils, but if you want one, you can have a copy for only 50 cents. But hurry, the offer is limited!

And it's well worth the half dollar. It contains poems from a number of students and some of the best, outstanding student photography I've ever laid eyes on.

The editor was Theresa Beena, and layouts were done by Judy Hewell and Hector Llorens. Hector, Judy and Joy Moon contributed the photos and other staff members included: Karl Niesen, Lisa Thompson, Mandy Llorens, Betty Soler, Andrea Nagler, and advisor Debbie Doyle.

Only 250 copies were ordered from the printers and about half of them were sold. They were quickly sold out. The school was at the high school now if you want one, you'd better hurry.

Back on Proposition 13, and the waste money by the government. I noticed the Florida Sea Grant College has received sum of money to conduct research on the vital question of "Is it safe for women to scuba dive during pregnancy?"

The Sea Grant College is located at the University of Florida and information will be collected from women who have been pregnant since scuba certification and within the last five years.

I enjoy scuba diving. And I'm sure many thousands of people enjoy this great land likewise enjoy scuba diving. But I wonder if this research is so vital that taxpayer's money should be spent on it.

Guess we'll find out. Results of the study will be made available to any and all who wish it.

A time to say no

The time may have come for the city to give a loud and resounding, "No!" to the federal government's ever-increasing demands.

Those demands, as was aptly demonstrated during a 201 Plan meeting last Thursday, are getting ever more strident, unreasonable and costly and somewhere, some time, someone is going to have to say, "No. We've gone along with you long enough. We're not going to put this extra burden on our taxpayers."

The plan, as outlined by engineers assigned to come up with the best way of getting rid of wastewater from the sewage treatment plants of Belle Glade, Pahokee, and South Bay, said the least expensive way was a deep well which would cost $9.5 million up front and $32.2 million over the next 20 years...if you don't count inflation.

This wastewater, mind you, has already been treated to the point it is possibly purer than the water being taken from Lake Okechobee for the city's water system.

In some places in the world, notably South Africa, treated sewage no purer than that which leaves the Belle Glade sewage treatment plant is already being recycled into water treatment plants and we could come to that yet.

But the federal Environmental Protection Agency's ivory tower planners have decreed that by 1983 there will be no surface water discharge from sewage treatment plants...no matter how pure the discharge.

Sure, the federal government is supposed to pay for 75 percent of the cost but that still leaves approximately $2.5 million for the three cities in western Palm Beach County to pay for the test well alone...and there's no guarantee at all the test would result in a well the city could use.

Even if the test works out to the satisfaction of everyone concerned, new rules, becoming more and more demanding, disallow the use of the test well for production, meaning the necessity of another $2.5 million outlay for the production well.

That's before the first drop of sewage is pumped into the bowels of the earth.

That's in spite of the EPA's track record so far which offers no assurance that while the deep well concept may be acceptable now, it will also be acceptable next year, much less 20 years down the road.

If that isn't enough, there's a very real possibility the area may be required to show good cause for picking the deep well injection method over land spreading, something no one knows anything about when you're talking about organic soil such as the muck overlaying western Palm Beach County.

Even if the land spreading is as much as 15 percent more costly than deep well injection, the feds would see that as no good reason for going to the well rather than spreading the waste water over pasture land. And when you're talking about more than $30 million over 20 years, 15 percent amounts to a considerable hunk of change.

And like we say, this isn't a price tag for a new sewer plant and system, it's tacked onto that price, over and above the homeowner's normal sewer fees.

The time will come when some local government, somewhere across this bureaucracy bedeviled nation of ours, will simply not be able to pay for the demands made by the EPA, or HEW or some other faceless bureaucratic burden saddling the taxpayer.

That's the time somebody, somewhere is going to take the federal government to court...or tell the bureaucrats they simply refuse to cave in any further to demands which have passed the ridiculous into the sublime.

That's the time the government leaders are going to risk fines, or jail terms if that's what it takes, and tell the feds they've been pushed far enough.

And with the mood sweeping the country in the wake of California's Proposition 13, that time may have arrived.

It takes a thief

The most stolen book in the Belle Glade Municipal Library these days is the Arco Civil Service Exam of Police Officers, a tome designed to help would-be law enforcement officers pass their entrance exams.

Wonder how many of these thieves passed the exam?

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the staff of the

Glades Mental Health Facility, I would like to express our sincere gratitude to the Pahokee Woman's Club and all of the Glades citizens which made the recent Arts and Crafts Festival a success.

The event netted the Center

$2,000.00. These funds are badly needed to assist us in meeting our present and future goals. To date all of our furnishings, all of our

been purchased through fund

Plans for a future and permanent mental health facility for the Glades area is brought a bit closer by the amount that is added each year to the building fund.

As our society becomes increasingly complex, the problems of coping become manifold. Our staff is making a sincere effort to respond to the increased and diversified problems of the area, but we can be successful only if we have the support of the people.

Again our heart felt thanks to all who year after year helps to make our funding raising efforts successful.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Editor:

The logical sequel to the overwhelming approval of Proposition 13 by the people of California would be the adoption of an Amendment to the U.S. Constitution mandating a balanced federal budget and prohibiting deficit spending. It is widely acknowledged that deficit spending by the federal government is the single greatest cause of inflation.

Five and a half years ago, I introduced into the 93rd Congress a Resolution to amend the Constitution mandating a balanced federal budget except in times of national emergency. This Resolution also requires the repayment of the national debt - now approaching three quarters of a TRILLION dollars - at the rate of 12% per year for the next 100 years.

The approval of Proposition 13 has become popularly known as a "taxpayers' revolt". To me, this is somewhat of a misnomer. The term "revolt" has connotation of violence perpetrated by unthinking radicals. I prefer to think of this action as an "awakening" of concerned and knowledgeable citizens who are becoming more aware of the direction our great nation is heading and who want to do something about it before it is too late.

Sincerely,
 L.A. "Bibi" Badelle
 Member of Congress

It's always been a wonder to me how two different people can get two different lessons out of the same incident.

Like when Bob Sanders pointed out a couple weeks ago that with three different navigators, I'd managed to wind up in fifth, third and second place in the city's first three road rallies.

"That might tell you something," Bob," I smirked, just knowing he was finally going to admit to my prowess as a rally driver.

"Yeah," he shot back. "You sure know how to pick partners for road rallies."

Injured pride can be so cruel but that's all right cause there was someone else commented later that, since there was a guy with me on the first time around and women the other two times, I should reason women make the best navigators.

I spoke, under the circumstances, I could take that logic a step further and say Black women make even better navigators than White women. Yeah, Alma and I decided a few weeks ago we'd make it a team of editors this time around.

On thing's for sure, Alma sure wasn't as cantankerous as some other female navigators I've known in the past...or male navigators for that matter. Biggest problem of Finball Henry and I had was second guessing the rallymaster on what constituted the second traffic light in a series but there were a few others who had that problem too.

Anyway, as I've said before, rallying is a pretty good way to spend what would otherwise be a wasted Sunday afternoon but I'm not so sure about this overnighter they were talking about.

Considering the penalty times seen in the rallies right around Belle Glade, I figure an overnighter to Orlando and back, say, could mean penalty times measure in hours instead of minutes.

I think Bob may have missed one of the major problem areas when he said that if the city does sponsor an overnighter, everybody would have to go on record as to whether they were driving with their spouse, girl or boyfriend or whatever. Seems he doesn't want the city involved in any hanky panky.

Somehow, I don't believe hanky panky would be the worst of his problem. The city would seem quite as serious as being named co-respondent in a passle of divorce suits.

You don't know what alienation of affection means until you've driven one of these things. Matter of fact, Tom Altman told me the other day that if he and his wife, Debby, ever drive another rally, she'll have to find another partner and he'll have to with someone else.

Those things are downright dangerous for marriages.

Ran across something else Sunday afternoon that was dangerous too when I went over to the marina to partake of a barbecue dinner being thrown by the Glades CB Club.

Seems all the ratchet-jaws and bucket mouths had gotten together to raise some funds by roasting a few chickens on the grills at the pavilion and, like I say, those were some dangerous birds.

Biggest clear and present danger to my waistline I've seen lately.

I'm downright ashamed of myself. Might even say I'm a disgrace to mankind.

A certain young, ah-hem, lady in the office administration, quite to Biff and me a few days ago with the avowed purpose of finding out how liberated we were. As much as it pains me to admit it, I went right off the chair.

Now I always have been considered myself liberated but I doubt Gloria Steinem and I would agree on the terms.

Personally, I've always gotten along with women as long as they realize I'm a man.

• Their opinion is as good as mine. It just isn't as right.

• There's always room for aggressive women in the roller derby.

• If a man on a job makes $300 a week, a woman on the same job should make coffee.

• The one thing a woman should never touch is a steering wheel.

Lost books cost city $40,000

BELLE GLADE - An estimated 4,500 books overdue at the city library have cost the city's taxpayers an estimated $40,000 over the past six years according to acting librarian Phyllis Lilley.

Miss Lilley said a definite count has already been made of the books with titles beginning with the letter A through M and the library staff has found 787 persons have kept 2,400 books worth an estimated $20,000 since 1972, an average of more than three books per person.

To give those persons with overdue books a chance to turn them in without a penalty and clear their names so they can begin again checking books out of the municipal library, Miss Lilley said an amnesty will be declared for the entire month of July.

But under any circumstances,

MIAMI—Four members of the Glades Kiwanis Club attended the 63rd annual Kiwanis International Convention here this week. The event took place in the Miami Beach Convention Center.

Tom Bonavia, Ed Rongione, Gilberto Alvarez and Leonard Case are members of the Kiwanis Club of the Glades. Bonavia is president of the club which is made up of business and professional men dedicated to community improvement.

Main speakers at the event were Frank Borman, president of Eastern Airlines and former astronaut; Dr. Richard D. Mills. Key Club and Circle K are youth organizations sponsored by Kiwanis.

Dr. Joyce Brothers, a noted psychologist, columnist and author, addressed women at the convention.

Other convention highlights included district affairs, the election of international officers and the adoption of amendments and resolutions. A total of four contemporary issues speakers were also on hand for the meet. Singer Tony Bennett entertained Kiwanis members and their families.

she said, the maximum fine for an overdue book is $1 although after a person has cleared his name, he is restricted to checking out no more than two books rather than the five other customers are allowed.

Miss Lilley said a number of people have brought in books a year or so after checking them out, telling the librarian they found them at home under the sofa or some other place but that doesn't happen too often.

She said one of the reasons she believes such a large number of books are missing is that Belle Glade has a large number of migrants who check out books and when they leave town, the book leaves too.

Other than that, she said there is no particular group who keeps books more than any other, although she said young children are better about returning them than other groups.

"When they're young," she said,

"we can get to them when they come into the library in groups and impress on them the need to return the books. It's only later, about the time they enter junior high school, that they start keeping them."

Ironically, Miss Lilley said the most stolen book in the library is a civil service test for police officers, one of a series of books designed to help applicants pass the exam. She said the book has been replaced five times in the past two years.

Miss Lilley said that when a customer is overdue with a book, the library's first action is to send a reminder card, which would be followed up by a letter informing the customer that unless the book is returned, they are being billed the replacement price of the volume.

If the book still isn't returned, the customer's name is included in a Rolex file and they aren't eligible to check out more books until their name has been cleared. She said she began the third Rolex file Monday after the first two files had been filled to overflowing.

"We issue about 100 new cards a month," she said, "and we probably don't circulate more than 2,400 books in a month."

She said there are approximately 30,000 volumes in the library with an average cost of $8 each.

Another problem Miss Lilley said the library is faced with is missing periodicals. She noted she has a long list of copies of Time and Newsweek magazines over the past year which have been stolen and now must be replaced so they can be bound.

"Then not too long ago," she said, "we found where someone ripped a page out of the Encyclopedia Britannica. That's a $500 set. Apparently they don't realize other people have to use the same page...or they don't care."

of Belle Glade for almost one year. He was hired by Wayne Mikel, bank president, and has been performing as Assistant Cashier as well as performing limited branch manager duties.

As branch manager, Milliron will be supervising the banking functions of the South Bay branch. The branch is a full-service bank. The building itself was designed to look as similar as possible to the main office in Belle Glade. They do offer a drive-in window, as well as having tellers inside.

In essence, the branch will offer everything the main office does, such as making loans, handling certificates of deposit, checking and savings accounts, money orders, cashiers checks, and all other procedures common to a full-service bank. The bank is a member of F.D.I.C.

Working with Milliron will be Virginia Lamb and Lavada Huff. They will perform duties as tellers and handle new accounts.

Milliron was born in Pennsylvania, but moved to Pahokee in 1960, at the age of 12. He attended Pahokee Junior and Senior High School where he lettered in performing as Assistant Cashier as well as performing limited branch manager duties. He graduated in 1966 and went on to attend Palm Beach Junior College for two years.

Milliron served in the Army for two years. He spent one of these in Viet Nam where he was a Communications Sergeant. After his discharge, Milliron worked at Hendrix Hardware in Pahokee for three years. He was also the manager of Connell's Hardware for three years.

Milliron is married. He and his wife, Omada, have two children, Tracie, 4, and Tricia, 6. In his spare time, Milliron enjoys softball and bass fishing.

When asked about the Glades in general, Milliron said, "I loves the Glades. I wouldn't live any other place in the world!"

He invites the public to drop in and see the new facility, talk with them, and see what all the branch has to offer.

City uses 'total cost' bidding for tractor

BELLE GLADE—The City Commission took advantage of a new "total cost" form of bids this week to buy a piece of heavy equipment which will be used for a number of chores, including use as a front end loader, a fork lift and a boom truck.

Public Works Director Ron Sigmon told the commissioners this is the first time the city has used the total cost method of bidding, which fixes a price on the equipment, a maximum cost of repairs over the life of the machine and a guaranteed repurchase price.

In the case of the wheel loader approved by the commission Monday night, the city will pay Kelly Tractor Co. of Clewiston $54,969 for the loader, along with four foot forks and an eight foot boom.

The city will have to pay no more than a maximum of $14,000 for repairs over the first 6,000 hours or six years, whichever comes first, and Kelly guarantees the city it will buy back the machine at the end of that period for at least $36,000.

Sigmon said part of the agreement is that if the loader is down for more than 72 hours, Kelly will either provide a replacement or provide the city with the rental price to rent the equipment elsewhere.

He said the city's staff had recommended during budget sessions to get the basic piece of equipment without the fork or the boom but, "I think we're getting a better price on the package deal. We could get the accessories later but I don't believe we'd get as good a buy."

A total of $48,000 was budgeted for the loader and the commissioners agreed to take the balance out of the commission's contingency fund.

In other business, the commission:

Approved the purchase of a $1,990 bush hog, a type of grass mower used alongside roads and in ditches.

Approved a bid by Richmond Company in the amount of $24,000 to renovate the city's sewer lift station number 14.

Water

West, agricultural production has been reduced because of the water allocations and supplies to some cities have fallen dangerously low.

This has brought about competition among the various users for the available water with industry, agriculture and private citizens all demanding their fair share.

One of the largest users of water is agriculture, said Dr. West, and pointed out that to produce a single slice of bread, 37.5 gallons of water must be used.

One of the principal goals of the Institute has become seeking solutions to the water problem and research is now being carried out to find out how much water exists in the state, find out how much agriculture needs, then to seek ways to more efficiently utilize the water resource available to agriculture.

A promising new irrigation system has been tested, said Dr. Shirley, which uses pipes to "drip" water directly to the roots of growing plants. Fertilizer can also be injected directly into the irrigation source. This method has been used in Israel for several years and has been found satisfactory there.

Drip irrigation requires less than nine acre inches of water per plant as opposed to 70 to 130 acre inches by conventional methods.

"Agriculture is going to have to learn to recycle its water supply," Aarna to recycle its water supply, "awareness of the need to use water effectively and efficiently has brought us to where we are now."

outlay alone.

"What I want to know," said South Bay Utilities Director Lomar Harrelle, "and what I'm going to be asked by my commissioners, is what this is going to cost South Bay in dollars and cents; a ball park figure."

When Schenck said South Bay's cost would be approximately $250,000, Harrelle told him, "No way. We only have 1,133 connections and we don't have that kind of money."

Pahokee Director of Water and Sewage Bill Cross observed that the best thing the cities might do would be to go ahead with the plan but wait until the federal government is willing to pay 100 percent of the cost to implement it.

"If they don't like that," Cross said, "we could turn it over to them if they think they can run it better."

Best Alabama cow dog is Belle Glade resident

TINDALL AND EFFA admire the plaque they won a week ago in Alabama where Effa beat out competition from several other

BELLE GLADE - Seven years of training paid off for Claude Tindall and Effa (sounds like Eefah) recently when Effa was named the best cattle working dog at the Second Annual Alabama Stock Dog Association's competition. Effa, which means "dog" in Seminole, is a seven year old male border collie. Tindall, a city commissioner and retired captain with the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office, has had Effa since the dog was a 6-week old pup and has been breeding, training and showing border collies ever since. He said last week he trains and shows his dogs as a hobby, which led into breeding the medium size black and white stock dogs for profit.

"Everything there (at the Alabama show) this time was border collie," Tindall said. "It's open competition and last year there was another breed in the competition but border collies won everything."

Tindall said he only entered the open cattle division of competition although there were two other classifications: open sheep dog and ranch class for sheep, which is for beginning trainers and dogs.

He said Effa has been trained to work cattle, sheep and ducks but not livestock. The border collies, originally bred in Scotland, have also been used for working goats, swine, turkeys and geese.

"Cattle competition is growing faster than I ever thought it would," he said, "and he's a real cattleman. We don't get into sheep."

Tindall said he has also entered Effa in last year's trials in Alabama and this year in Georgia, winning Reserve Champion both times, before winning Grand Champion on June 17 at Pike Road, Ala., just outside Montgomery.

He said there were 27 dogs entered in the cattle competition. They came from Alabama, Ohio

Wisconsin, Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee and several other states, "but my son and I were the only ones from Florida."

As an indication of the interest in the Alabama competition, Tindall said he ran into one man from New Zealand.

To win the competition, he said Effa was required to herd three cows, at Tindall's quiet commands, around the inside of a pen, between the fence and three panels located in various spots, then back through the center of the pen through the chute.

Tindall's working commands are seldom understood by a layman, and sometimes wouldn't be recognized as commands. Singals range from a soft whistle to a spoken word, with Effa paying attention to both Tindall and the stock.

"These are the best dogs I've ever worked with," he said. "Years ago, I used to use what we called old cur dogs and I had a border collie a few years ago but these are the best."

Tindall works his dog at his home at 1600 N.W. Ave. N, where he has a pen with sheep and a kennel. He said he has ten dogs now, including Effa. He has had as many as 30 dogs on hand at one time.

Only two teams undefeated in Glades Women's Softball

By Karen Hanaford

BELLE GLADE - As the Glades Women's Softball League entered its fourth week to play, two teams were still undefeated. Community United Methodist Church (CUMC) and South Bay Growers each has a record of three wins and no losses. Last year's defending champions Wallis Pharmacy, along with Bank of Pahokee and Dixie Fried Chicken were victims of CUMC, while South Bay Growers mowed down Local 2152, First Baptist Church of Belle Glade and Miami Herald.

Last Thursday's games in Canal Point were interrupted by heavy rain and had to be postponed. CUMC was in the lead against Local 2152 by a score of 18-4 when the game was called in the middle of the third inning due to the weather. Both games will be played at a later date.

Wallis Pharmacy rolled to a 23-0 shutout over Bank of Pahokee in the first game of a doubleheader played Thursday, June 15th, in Canal Point. The second game was much closer as CUMC topped Dixie Fried Chicken 14-5.

Kelly Teets was the leading hitter to score in the seventh inning by leading the bases until CUMC pitcher Jamie Priest fielded a grounder and threw to first base for the final out, preserving the victory.

The First Baptist Church edged by Local 2152 in Tuesday's game June 20, played at the Belle Glade Little League ballpark. Local took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Susie Rives' run, but First Baptist jumped back in the next inning with eight runs to Local's five.

Both teams concentrated on offense throughout the game, with Local taking advantage of pitching problems for several runs. Final score was First Baptist 13, Local 2152 12.

South Bay Growers romped over Miami Herald with 26 runs in five innings for its third win of the season. The batters collected 18 hits while taking advantage of nearly as many errors in the victory.

Kim Miller, Loretta Pugh and Janet McKinley were the leading hitters with three hits each, one of Miller's a triple into leftfield. McKinley, Mary Lou Stevens and Judy Abner all had doubles to help the offense.

Miami Herald's only scoring came in the early part of the game as Jeannie Britt and Sherri Herring rounded the bases in the first and Kathy Hager crossed the plate in the second inning for three runs. Hager and Donna Garcia knocked out doubles for the team. The game ended after five innings with a 26-3 score.

League standings as of 6/23/78: South Bay Growers, 3-0; CUMC, 3-0; Wallis Pharmacy, 2-1; First Baptist Church, 2-1; Dixie Fried Chicken, 1-2; Miami Herald, 1-2; Local 2152, 0-3; Bank of Pahokee, 0-3.

More time for fishing

Some Lake Okeechobee anglers will have an hour extra fishing time for the next 60 days as a result of action taken by the Governing Board of the South Florida Water management District.

The Board approved the experiment to operate the Lake's locks one extra hour per day. During this time a survey will be conducted and the results of the survey will determine whether or not these hours will be continued for the remainder of the summer.

The new hours, 5:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., become effective on June 23, 1978 at the following locks: Lakeport, Buckhead Ridge, Taylor Creek, Hendry Creek and J&S Park. Regular hours of operation are from 5:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

SHEEP IN THE CHUTE, Effa streaks around the open structure to bring back a few who had gone too far to hold the animals until Tindall gives the order to release them.

SHOWING WHY he was named best cattle dog in Alabama, Effa heads off a small group of sheep to herd them through a chute in Tindall's yard. Besides cattle and sheep, Effa has also been known to work ducks.

Three Raiders sign scholarships

BELLE GLADE - Three Glades Central High Football players have signed agreements to play for two year colleges over the past week according to former head coach Willie McDonald.

McDonald said nose guard Anthony Jones has agreed to play for Northwestern College in Orange City, Iowa and Don Andrews decided not to attend Fort Scott Junior College in Fort Scott, Kan., in favor of Fayetteville State University on Fayetteville, N.C., along with Tim Ingram.

Jones was an All-Conference and honorable mention All-Area defensive player on the 1977 Glades Central team. He made 47 tackles and 17 assists before being injured in the North Shores game and sitting out the rest of the season. He also played on the line in goal line offensive situations.

Andrews had received a grant-in-aid from Fort Scott, McDonald said, but after he received All American status in a prep athletic book, was recruited heavily. McDonald said there is no conflict on Andrews' signing with Fayetteville because one is a four year university and the other a two year school.

Andrews was a tight end and defensive backfielder for the Raiders.

Ingram, a defensive guard, made 26 tackles and 12 assists on the defensive end. He also played

Lewis urges thrift in schools

Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman Phil Lewis (D-West Palm Beach) today warned Florida schools not to spend all the money appropriated to them by the Legislature.

The Legislature approved a record $1.3 billion in state general revenue spending for education, far more than was anticipated and a significant increase over what was asked for education by the Governor.

But, warned Senator Lewis, who will be the incoming President of the Senate, "educators must recognize that there could be a severe cutback in educational and all other available dollars next year as a result of an economic slump.

"They had better start squirreling away some of this money coming their way today and not spend it all. I have a strong feeling we are going to have a holdback because of economic problems.

"Everyone in education received more than they expected and they need to realize that this horn of plenty is not likely to be in the same posture next year."

Two on honor roll at Stetson

DELAND - Two Belle Glade students were named to the Honor Roll at Stetson University here for the Spring 1978 session according to Mrs. Helen Sassard, acting registrar.

Listed on the roll were Charles W. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. May of 1108 N.W. 16th St.

The Stetson Honor Roll is composed of undergraduates with a 2.0 average or better with no grade less than C.

Jones is senior airman

TULLAHOMA, TENN. - The U.S. Air Force has promoted Dorothy J. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Matthews of Fifty Six, Ark., to the rank of senior airman.

Airman Jones is serving at Arnold Air Force Station, Tenn., as an administration specialist. She is a 1967 graduate of Manila (Ark.) High School. Her husband, Staff Sergeant William Jones, is the son of Mrs. Sue Vuglione of 1148 Stillwell Drive, Belle Glade.

Residents receive degrees

BELLE GLADE - Three Belle Glade residents recently were awarded masters degrees by the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, Col. after taking extension courses.

Receiving masters of arts degrees were Billie J. Jenkins of 749 S.W. 12th St.; Mary L. Simmons of 108 N.W. Seventh St. and Elmore Y. Washington of 605 S.W. 14th St.

Tags to be suspended Friday

BELLE GLADE - Automobile license plate sales will be suspended Friday at the Palm Beach County Glades Office Building on US441 according to County Tax Collector Allen C. Clark.

Clark said the State Department of Motor Vehicles will conduct an inventory statewide on license plates and decals Friday and sales points throughout the state will be closed that day.

Straight as an Arrow

In Archery you score only when you hit the target. To score well, you must have straight arrows.

When you attend church, it makes it easier to stay on the straight path. The church wants to help you in all ways of life, but can only do so, if you stay within its circle. Attend church and know the joy of a good life.

"For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace, as in all churches of the saints."

Coleman Adv. Serv.

PING-PONG ANYONE? HOW ABOUT BASKETBALL? Sounds great but you don't have a ping-pong table much less a basketball court. Well now you can enjoy these favorite sports like these students shown here. They are taking advantage of a recreational program being offered at the Pahokee High School gymnasium throughout the summer. Andre Jones and Bernard Jackson, former graduates of Pahokee High School, will be supervising the program.

Charter meeting set

BELLE GLADE - The proposed county charter will be discussed in a public informational meeting July 24 in Bryant Auditorium at the Palm Beach County Glades Office Building on US 441 north of here.

The meeting is one of a series of six and workshops and public hearings have also been scheduled on the proposed charter.

The plan for the county's first charter, which would have to be approved in a referendum this fall, has already generated some controversy. Opposition has primarily stemmed from constitutional officers who would become elected charter officials, under some commission control, in the present draft.

The officers would include the sheriff, the property appraiser, the tax collector and the supervisor of elections. While they would still be elected, their staffs would come under a county-wide personnel department.

County Administrator John Sanbury, member of the staff and legal aides first reviewed the proposed charter last Thursday in the County Courthouse.

Should the commission adopt the final proposal, the charter would go on the November ballot for a decision by the voters.

New freight line for area

Personalized service pledged

W.S. "Bill" Smalley, president of Smalley Transportation Co. addressed a group of area businessmen Tuesday night in Clewiston at which time he gave a brief history of his transportation firm and gave a pledge of personalized service to the area.

Smalley and representatives of his firm had been asked to appear at the meeting by Pat Drake, president of the Lake Okechobee Area Traffic Council.

Smalley Transportation began serving the area with general freight service several weeks ago on a temporary permit granted when South Florida Freightways company ceased operation.

Smalley "grew-up" in the freight business and worked with Central Trucking Company for 10 years prior to starting his own firm in 1965 in Tampa. The original business was a local cartage service and was comprised of three people including Smalley who doubled a truck driver.

As his business prospered he became franchised to serve the west coast of Florida from Crystal River south to Naples, annexing the area county by county plus service in Duval County. He presently has more than 300 employees, exceeded a five million dollar gross last year and is looking to exceed ten million in gross this year.

"We have built our business on service and prior to starting our new service into South Florida we maintained a 94% over night service record," he said. Smalley also acknowledged that with the annexation of service to the new area had come numerous problems, most of them dealing in personnel. With less than a week's notice, Smalley opened new terminals in Lakeland, West Palm Beach and Fort Myers. New equipment including 79 new trailers were purchased to serve the area. "Most of our drivers are owner-operators which contributes to their desire to serve. Bonuses are provided as additional incentive," he continued.

Several public hearings will have to be held prior to the granting of a permanent franchise for the south-east Florida area abandoned by South Florida Freightways. Five other transportation companies are scheduled to formally apply for the PSC franchise, however, the majority of those are not presently providing daily service to the area.

Smalley and his organization are seeking to establish that there is a need for improved service to the area, that they are capable of providing good service to the entire area. Representatives of the Smalley firm will be visiting the area in the near future seeking information which will document poor service in the past and seeking statements of improved service from Smalley.

One of the key bits of information given out Tuesday was that the Smalley is deemed for both interstate and intrastate. The inter state connections provide freight service connections nationwide.

"We have experienced some difficulty in annexing the area and our overnight delivery record is probably more like 65% than our former record of 94%, but I can assure you that it is improving on a daily basis.

"Inquiries were also made into the possibility of locating terminal space in the Glades providing the volume justifies. "We are committed to provide service in the South Florida area and we will do whatever is necessary to provide our standard of service," believe me," he said.

Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay, Clewiston and Moore Haven are all served from the new West Palm Beach terminal. Labele is served from Fort Myers and Okeechobee is served from Fort Pierce.

Smalley is interstate and intrastate certificated, has a $5,000,000 insurance coverage in ITS systems bonded; offers TOFC and container service; interstate service to all points in US; and import and export traffic.

Terminals are located in Jacksonville, Lakeland, Miami, Ocala, Orlando and Tampa.

Smalley Transportation Company's proposal would authorize service to unshaded area of state.
